Martin E. Weaver Award Recipients

The Martin E. Weaver Award recognizes the article that best demonstrates excellence in the history of technology, training, and education in historic preservation, or in the investigation and treatment of wood in historic buildings and artifacts. This award was created in 2008 and honors Martin E. Weaver (1938-2004), an architect, architectural conservator and former APT President. Martin E. Weaver was a noted historic preservation lecturer, and taught at Columbia University from 1991-2004.
